Sir, The Press being the only proper channel

through which the delinquencies of people can be exposed, I crave the indulgence of your granting py Valley. ie a corner in your journal. On several occasions I have noticed with fex gret the impropriety, not to say utter recklessness, on the part of certain fast young men in driving most furiously through the crowded and narrow streets of our town without the slightest regard for the lives of the citizens. What their motive or object can be for such conduct I leave it to them to explain; but when persons forget themselves so far as not only to endanger the lives of their fellow creatures, but also while doing so make a fun of using their whips rather freely on the backs of the inoffensive and helpless natives, who in no way make any attempt to come in their way. I think it behaves every man, who has any respect for the laws of his country, or who is possessed of any human sympathy, to step for- The Houses a ward and bring the delinquents before the bar whole harbour.

A few days ago, I observed a young man, eviwhatever name his conveyance may be called and although there was no one on the road to olistruct his "swift passage," yet as if to show his prowess, or perhaps for "fun's sake" he laid his whip on the back of one of several respectable looking Chinese, who happened to be walking quietly on the pavement. This, I presume, was no doubt a great feat in the opinion of the person in question; but would it not be proper to ask him how he would have liked, had he been subjected to a similar treatment. This is not, however quite so had as what I witnessed last evening work will be issued in Two Parts | and the only conclusion I can draw from it is: that the party, who can be guilty of such cowardly conduct must be totally void of all shame feeling or honor. I allude to a decently dressed young man (probably the same whose behaviour I have noticed above) who in driving through one of our street, without any cause or reason, inflicted with his whip a severe out on a Chinese female with a very decent appearance, and although the unfortunate woman smarting under the pain she felt, screamed and with tears in her eyes commenced cursing and following the would be gen- Rooms with Bath Room large Godown and Sertleman, he drove off most unconcernedly, condescending only now and then to east " a look behind," as if, I imagine, to enjoy "the fun." this worthy is an Englishman, which for the sake of his country I hope is not the case, let me assure bim that his countrymen, or rather the respec-We have very little news to lay before our table portion of them in this colony, will never readers in recommencing our labors after the tolerate or uphold such brutal conduct.
